Author of Image in the Machine | AI Technologist | Lay Theologian

MS, Artificial Intelligence (UTSA) | MBA | USAF Disabled Veteran | Founder, ONSQ Enterprise

"We are building machines in our image while forgetting we were made in His."

ABOUT OWEN

Owen Eskew works at the rare intersection of serious AI practice and serious theology. He holds a master's degree in artificial intelligence, builds production AI systems for defense and commercial clients, and writes as a lay theologian on what intelligent machines reveal about human beings made in the image of God. His book Image in the Machine gives churches, schools, and families a biblical framework for the AI age, with a companion journal, an all-church study system, and full high school and college curricula. Owen is a USAF disabled veteran and lives in the Texas Hill Country with his wife Jenny and their four sons.

SPEAKING AND INTERVIEW TOPICS

- Image in the Machine (signature talk)
What building AI reveals about being made in the image of God, and why the church cannot sit this decade out.
- Raising Image-Bearers in the Age of AI
A practical framework for parents navigating chatbots, screens, and formation at home.
- The Soul of the Machine Builder
For tech and professional audiences: what an AI practitioner learned about human uniqueness from the inside.
- The Classroom AI Cannot Replace
For educators: teaching discernment and human dignity when every student has a machine that writes.
